Let's Start!

The party is on! Time to socialize!

Learning Outcome

Describe routines and regular activities in a wider range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What do you like to do at a party? Talk to everybody? Talk to one or two people only?
- Are you shy or outgoing?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about people's behavior and personality.
- I can talk about future actions, plans and intentions.

Let's Explore!

Luther is excited to try one of Canada's national dishes

* A "national dish" is a type of food that is very popular in a particular country. Poutine is one of Canada's national dishes.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Luther: The food is heavenly. Vanessa is an exceptionally gifted cook.
- Sally: I know. She always spoils us whenever we throw a party. Would you like more poutine?
- Luther: Don't mind if I do! I'm going to eat as much poutine as I can during my upcoming tour of Canada!
- Sally: Oh! Where are you going to play?
- Luther: We'll be in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver for two weeks. We're playing eight gigs in total. After that, we'll have a five-day break, followed by a series of shows in Europe.
- Sally: That sounds exhausting! Do you sometimes get tired of being constantly on the road?
- Luther: I love this life! I'm naturally quite reserved, but when I get on stage, I become a totally different person.
- Sally: How so?
- Luther: Playing gives me a chance to be more daring. I guess I'm more fearless behind my saxophone!
- Sally: It's like me and my articles! It allows me to be curious about everything. Actually, would you mind if I write a profile on you?
- Luther: It would be a pleasure! My schedule is free tomorrow morning.

Learning Points

Talking About Future Actions

You can use four different tenses to talk about the future.

You use the present simple to talk about something scheduled or in a timetable.

For example:

Our train leaves at 9:00 a.m. on Monday morning.

You use the present continuous for plans or arrangements.

For example:

I'm playing football tomorrow with my friends.*

You use will to make predictions about the future. Often we use words like: I think, maybe and I suppose, when we make these predictions.

For example:

I think Italy will win the World Cup.

You also use will to make offers or promises, and when you decide at the moment of speaking.

For example:

Mary will help you with your homework.

You use (be) going to to talk about plans and intentions. You have the idea, but you have not booked or made a firm commitment yet.

For example:

I'm going to go to a quiet, sunny place this summer on my vacation.*

You also use (be) going to when we can see something is likely to happen. There is some evidence that it is going to happen.

For example:

*Be careful! You are going to fall.

Learning Points

To learn more, look at the chart below:

Going to	Will	Present Continuous	Present Simple
decision made for the future	prediction about the future	action already arranged for the near future	timetables
conclusion with regard to the future	promise		fixed arrangements in the near future spontaneous decision or offer

Respond Politely to Suggestions and Offers

When someone offers suggestions, it is important to respond politely. Remember to use the modals could, should or might to suggest something.

Here is a list of expressions you can use to give suggestions:

- You might want to ...
- Would you mind ... ?
- You should ...
- You ought to ... (strong request)

Responding to Offers and Suggestions

- I don't think I can ...
- I guess that could ...
- That would be ...
- I would ...
- Don't mind if I do!

Examples:

- Ann: Would you like more poutine?
- Bob: Don't mind if I do!
- Ann: Would you mind if I do a profile on you?
- Bob: It would be a pleasure.
