

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Writing Spot: An evening of music, food and wonderful company.

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe personal and regional eating habits and cooking in a range of communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can write about food and cooking.
- I can talk about quantities and amounts.
- I can write a short journal entry.

Ask your partner:

- Do you host dinners or parties? Do you invite a lot of people?
- What do you usually cook? What kind of music do you play?

Let's Explore!

Vanessa and Sally are hosting a party. Would you like an invitation?

* To entertain a group of people.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Isn't he amazing! He can play like that for an hour straight.
- Sally: I love instrumental music. I just wrote a piece on jazz music for Cambridge Life.
- Luther: Thanks everyone. Wow, something smells good!
- Vanessa: That might be the pulled pork and poutine on the counter. Would you like some?
- Luther: Poutine? Isn't that French?
- Sally: Canadian actually, it's a winter favorite.
- Vanessa: Here, I'll make up a plate for you while you're putting your sax away. How much would you like?
- Luther: I'll have a plateful of the meat and a sampling of the poutine. Oh and can I have some Caesar salad on the side?
- Vanessa: Sure, no problem. By the way, these recipes are going to be in my cookbook. Right now, I'm collecting recipes in my food journal.
- Luther: What a great idea!
- Sally: She is an amazing chef and restaurant manager.
- Luther: Talented indeed! I'm a bit of a foodie myself. I like to try new restaurants around town.
- Sally: Well, I'm sure you'll be one of the first to receive Vanessa Cooks, her first edition.

Let's Practice!

Mmm...something smells delicious! I will have a plateful, thanks.

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct 1 mistake per sentence. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Wow, somethin smells good!
2. That might be the pull pork and poutine on the counter.
3. Would you laik some?
4. I'm a bit of a fudie myself.
5. Right now, I'm collecting resipes in my food journal.

Let's Practice!

How much food would you like?

Instructions: Read the dialogue again. Identify key information. Choose the words from the word bank to correctly complete the paragraph.

Word Bank

mountain / a plateful / container / side /
sampling / counter / a cupful

I'll have _____ of the meat and a _____ of the poutine. Can I have about _____ of Caesar salad on the _____? That might be the _____ of pulled pork I can smell. There is a _____ of poutine on the _____.

Extension Activity

Time for some journal writing.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write a 80 to 100 word journal entry about a meal that someone made.
- Explain what was in the meal and who made it.
- Describe the taste and what the dish looked like.
- Use words to describe quantities and amounts.
- Read the journal entry aloud to a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I write a journal entry about food and cooking.

☐ ☐

I describe a meal using quantities and amounts.

☐ ☐

I describe the taste and what the dish looked like.

☐ ☐

I read my journal entry about food to a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- pulled pork (noun): meat from a pig that has been slow cooked
e.g. Would you like a pulled-pork sandwich?
- poutine (noun): a Canadian dish made with fries, cheese curds and gravy
e.g. Can I have some extra gravy on my poutine?
- foodie (noun): a person who has a strong interest in food
Example: I'm a bit of a foodie myself.
- sampling (noun): a selection
Example: Could I have a sampling from the cheese platter?
- Caesar salad (noun): a salad of romaine lettuce and croutons dressed with parmesan cheese, lemon juice, olive oil, and egg e.g. Would you add some Caesar salad to my plate?

Learning Points

Writing a Short Journal Entry

A journal is a place where you can express your thoughts and ideas about a subject. You write the date of your journal entry at the beginning of each entry. Keeping a journal is a good way of improving your writing skills and practicing new vocabulary and sentence structure.

You could write about general things such as:

- your family
- food you have eaten
- your hobbies and free time activities
- trips you go on with your family or friends
- holidays
- birthdays
- books you have read
- films you have seen

For example:

Yesterday, I took my mom to see a movie at the new theatre in town. The movie was a comedy and starred Diane Keaton. Afterwards, we went out for dinner. My mom had sushi and I had a salad. It was a great night!

Examples:

- Last night, Sally cooked seafood lasagne.
- She suggested that the roast lamb should sit for twenty minutes.

Learning Points

Quantifiers

You use a quantifier before a noun to indicate the amount or number of an item.

You use quantifiers to talk about the quantity or amount of something.

Quantifiers can be used with countable and uncountable nouns.

These are quantifiers you can use with countable nouns:

- many
- several
- few/a few of
- a number of
- a cupful
- a plateful
- a sampling
- a large/great number of

These are quantifiers you can use with uncountable nouns:

- a bunch
- some
- a little

Examples:

- Can I have a cupful of peanuts?
- I would love a plateful of pulled pork.

